Výsledky vzdelávania: Modern European History will focus mainly on mid-twentieth century European history (1945-1989). As no event occurs in a microcosm, this course will also cover wider developments during this time period. In addition, students will study the effects of these events on developments up to the present day. Students will also examine primary and secondary historical sources, explore key themes, and be expected to master the chronology of events. This course will focus on Europe as a whole, while emphasizing regional variations as well as exceptions to generally regarded rules of homogeneity. Students will be asked to consider the perspectives and motivations of various actors (individuals, groups, nations, or alliances) and to assess the value of different historical sources and approaches to writing history. The aim of this course is to give students a deeper understanding of this region’s history and provide some historical context for the contemporary political and philosophical writings that they may be asked to study in other courses at BISLA. In addition to lectures, seminars, and discussions, students’ written and oral communication skills will be developed through essays and presentations. Along with increased historical understanding, students will cultivate better critical thinking and analytical skills that can be applied in a range of academic and practical settings.
